

ITG opens new e-commerce location in Oberhausen

ITG continues to grow and opens a new location in Oberhausen. Due to the strong growth at the Neuss location and various new customers, the company has decided to rent a modern logistics center with 30,000 m² from SEGRO in Oberhausen. The activities previously carried out at the Neuss site will be transferred to the new location. In addition, new customers have been acquired, including fashionette AG.

Schwaig, December 7th, 2020 - ITG GmbH Internationale Spedition & Logistik, a fulfillment service provider specialized in fashion & lifestyle, continues to expand. The company, headquartered in Schwaig at Munich Airport, rents 30,000m² of state-of-the-art logistics real estate in the SEGRO Logistics Park Oberhausen. On the one hand, the growth of existing customers at the Neuss location has led ITG to look for a new property. In addition, several new customers have been acquired, which are now gradually moving in. The highly modern property in Oberhausen has excellent transport connections, including a direct exit from the A3. Furthermore, the location offers very good opportunities for further growth, as development areas are still available. In particular, the proximity to the transshipment centers of the leading parcel service providers is a very decisive advantage for customers in the e-commerce environment, as this allows late cut-off times. "We are very proud to continue our consistent growth with this step. The Oberhausen location offers many advantages for our customers. On the one hand, inbound from Asia due to an ideal connection to the western ports, very good accessibility to the airports of Düsseldorf and Frankfurt, where ITG's Air & Sea stations are also located, and the immediate proximity to the rail terminal in Duisburg. On the other hand, in outbound with the short distances to the parcel service providers," says Patrick Lindig, Managing Director of ITG GmbH.

At the Oberhausen location, ITG follows the proven approach of depicting maximum flexibility and thus highest synergies via large multi-user logistics centers. With fashionette AG, an online retailer specializing in designer handbags, shoes and other fashion accessories, ITG was able to gain a very rapidly expanding company as a new customer. In addition to the focus on e-commerce, the site will also offer ITG's classic service portfolio in textile logistics, both for hanging and flatpacked garments. In addition, comprehensive value-added services will continue to be provided for all aspects of garments. These range from textile finishing with state-of-the-art equipment such as tunnel finishers, tumble dryers and ironing dolls, up to services directly on the product such as sewing, textile printing and other personalization.

About ITG

The ITG Group, headquartered in Schwaig at Munich Airport, is a medium-sized and global acting logistics and fulfillment service provider with 12 own branches and seven logistics centers in Germany, the Netherlands, the USA and Russia. In addition, ITG operates warehouses in Shanghai and Hong Kong with local partners.

The range of services includes all fulfillment services that customers require along their entire supply chain from procurement to the end customer. Always with the aim to develop tailor-made solutions and thus added value for the customer.

Transport logistics includes air and sea freight services, land transport and complete customs clearance, as well as quality assurance and quality management directly with the product. Ideally, logistics fulfillment combines all sales channels and offers corresponding services up to complete omnichannel solutions. In addition to Pick, Pack & Ship, these also include extensive value-added services, such as quality control, preparation and personalization as well as everything around returns processing. In addition to these classic logistics services, ITG is increasingly focusing on fulfillment services for online retailing. Here, technological solutions are offered in the frontend and backend areas. In this context, ITG develops and operates complementary services such as order management, financial services, customer care or content management. However, the operation and optimization of complete CEP networks for direct delivery to end customers is also part of this portfolio.

The performance characteristics of the group are individual service, flexibility and absolute reliability. The logistics service provider has special expertise in the sectors of fashion, sports, cosmetics, lifestyle & luxury goods and merchandising.

The group consists of the German companies ITG GmbH Internationale Spedition und Logistik (contract logistics, e-commerce and truck transport) and ITG Air & Sea GmbH (air and sea freight as well as multimodal solutions using block train and sea/air) as well as three foreign subsidiaries in the Netherlands, Russia and the USA. ITG Group is headed by the Managing Directors Holger Funk besides Patrick Lindig and is part of the LGI Logistics Group International GmbH, which has been a subsidiary of the Swedish company Elanders since mid-2016. Elanders, a globally active group of companies, offers a wide range of supply chain management services. It employs a total of almost 7,000 people and is active in around 20 countries on four continents.
